Thinking Out Loud

By H. M. L.

For this issue we surrender this column to an editorial writer who hits the nail on the head in every sentence. The editorial follows:

MERRIAM OR OLSON?

On November 8, two weeks from next Tuesday, the voters of California, will choose between two candidates the man who as Governor, will direct the affairs of this fifth State of the Union for the next four years.

The choice lies between Frank F. Merriam, present Governor, and Culbert Olson, a State Senator.

That these men are, respectively, the Republican and the nominally Democratic nominees for the state's highest executive post is the least important aspect of the contest.

The question to be settled is not a partisan one. Only in the broadest sense is it even political.

At every essential point it is the same question which was answered four years ago by the election of Governor Merriam over Upton Sinclair. It is the question whether California shall continue sane, conservative and successful or shall abandon its proven ways of well-being for an excursion into the wilderness of radical experimentation.

What does this State—or any State—require as the essential qualities of a Governor?

First of all, a policy, a program and a background that give assurance of the greatest good to the greatest number.

In policy and program which, in a period of general distress and against odds faced by few States, have put California in the top six of all the Commonwealths in solvency and equality of welfare, Governor Merriam has earned the support of every considerable, constructive element of the State.

Senator Olson has no policy save that of political expediency and no program but one of confused and contradictory promises. The great bulk of his support is from those who expect to gain personal, illegitimate advantages—at the expense of others—from his election. His principal organization indorsements are those of the Communists, the Tom Mooney Defense League, the CIO and the Ham and Egg pension planners. He has the nominal support of the State Democratic organization—but 150,000 more registered Democrats voted against his nomination than voted for it. He has the nominal support of the national administration, but it has been largely nulified by the New Deal's unanimous repudiation of the crackpot pension scheme which is Olson's chief support.

Next most important in the qualifications reasonably to be demanded of an aspirant for the Governorship is a personal and official record that support his claims of future service. For more than a quarter of a century, Governor Merriam has served the people of California continuously, faithfully and effectively as State Assemblyman, State Senator, Lieutenant Governor and Governor. In the last named capacity he inherited a deficit of $30,000,000 which, in four years of sound financing, he has halved. In the same period the state's budget has been balanced, its credit raised to a place among the country's highest and a rigid system of pay-as-you-go established and enforced for every state activity. This has not been accomplished by oppressive taxation or by the curtailment of any essential or humanitarian service. On the contrary, our percapita state taxes are among the lowest and the most equitably spread in the United States; our old age benefits are actually the highest paid by any Commonwealth, regardless of size or resources. In the face of an indigent problem such as no other state has had to contend with, relief and unemployment have been adequately and nonpolitically cared for, an unprecedented demand for emergency flood-aid met, state services to the public and to our widely diversified business, agricultural, mining and manufacturing interests extended and an exceptionally high standard of public education maintained. Considering the terrific handicaps which during the past four years, depression and unemployment have thrust upon every government and particularly upon California's, the Merriam record is an extraordinary one, equaled by that of few states and certainly surpassed by none. To the manifold problems of government, of labor relations, of indigent aid, of legislation and of finance the governor has brought qualities of courage, intelligence, tolerance, honesty, consistency and fairness which have won for him the confidence and cooperation of his own subordinates, of the public, of other states and of the federal government. There is never any doubt where Governor Merriam stands on any public question; his platform is one which meets every issue squarely and without equivocation. He is not merely able and experienced.... he is thoroughly dependable. He has never made a promise he did not make good; he is making none such now.

As an administrator and executive of public affairs, large or small, the best that can be said of Senator Olson is that he is a completely unknown quantity. His experience in office is limited to service as a state senator in Utah and in California. He is an advocate, strictly for vote-getting purposes, of whatever unsound political or economic fad happens to be popular at the moment. In 1934 he was in the forefront of Upton Sinclair's Epic campaign—for

Golden Bear Alumni Hear Prexy Sproul

At a special buffet supper held Sunday evening at the Bret Harte Inn in Grass Valley, Dr. Gordon Sproul, president of the University of California, principle speaker of the evening, addressed some 125 alumni.

In Dr. Sproul's party were Mr. and Mrs. Robert Sibley, Brutus Hamilton, U. C. Coach, Mr. Calkins and twenty members of the U. C. Glee Club. Mr. Sibley is the executive manager of the California Alumni Association.

Judge Raglan Tuttle of Nevada City, chairman of the local alumni, opened the program with a short address. He then turned the meeting over to Judge George L. Jones, Nevada City attorney, who introduced Dr. Sproul. Following the speeches there was an interesting moving picture show of the Rose Bowl and the California-St. Mary's football game, and choral numbers by the U. C. Glee Club.

Pointing out the accomplishments of the University of California, its service to the state and its return on the investment made by the people, President Robert Gordon Sproul contrasted the situation here with that in Germany, where he visited this summer. Dr. Sproul spoke before a gathering of the alumni of the state university at Grass Valley last night.

The University in the seventy years of its existence has provided facilities for the education of 140,000 men and women, he said, and today has approximately 27,000 full time students in 122 departments, schools and colleges, sending forth each year some 4,600 students with degrees. It has attracted more than fifty million dollars in gifts. It has reasearch programs which led to discoveries which return to the people many times the annual cost of the institution, perhaps more than its total cost since it was founded.

The president referred to the discovery in the Medical School of the cure for pernicious anaemia, the discovery of vitamin E, the solution of the mystery of botulism which faced the California canning industry, the conquering of the citrophilus mealybug and the invention of the cyclotron, which smashed the invisible atom, transmuted lead into gold, and which may be the solution to the cancer problem.

In contrast to this, Dr. Sproul told what he had seen and heard in Germany, where higher education has been drastically curtailed and is given only as it serves the interests of the dictatorial state, where admission requirements are race, sex, brawn, and political acceptability. To be called intellectual there, he said, was worse than being called immoral here.

He told of a conversation he had with one German, who spoke admiringly of Hitler's accomplishment in welding the nation together, in improving the dignity of the working man and adding to his enjoyment of life, and in arming the natoin so that it is no longer the helpless prey of its neighbors. But then the German said: "Hitler has taken away our freedom. The eye of the secret police is on us all the time. A totalitarian state is a terrible thing. Every institution, every individual, must fit into its pattern, its scheme."

"The higher learning," said President Sproul, "cannot be confined within the narrow limits of party or race, cannot be held upon the track either of a mystical national religion or a purely utilitarian philosophy. The chief function of a university is, was, and always will be the preservation, imparting, and advancement of knowledge, irrespective of utilitarian ends. Higher education is a value in itself, which should be available to men of every class who have brains enough to profit by it intellectually and morally. If this is not true, then Democracy as the dictators of Germany, Italy and Russia have often said, is a stinking failure.

"The University of California believes this is true. Men, we believe, require training in vocations and professions as a means of expressing themselves on the level at which they now exist. They require much more to advance to higher levels. We believe, too, that the individual and his good are both the end and the means of social endeavor; that the value of society is found in the opportunity for a satisfying life which it secures for the individual; that the worth of the individual lies in his contributions to the strength and stability of society; and, finally, that society exists for the good of all individuals, present and future, and social welfare is created and maintained by the efforts of all individuals.

"If what the world wants is Mussolinin, Hitlers, and Stalins, it is wasting money upon universities and should close them rather than restrict their enrollment.

"This is the task of the university; to safeguard and perpetuate democracy by the development of citizens capable of molding intelligent, alert, and courageous public opinion, by the cultivation of unselfish leaders armed for action with that vision without which people perish. Such a task will requrie all the help we can get. In particular, those whom Alma Mater has nurtured must now sustain her. These are times that call for loyalty. The long and useful history of the university, its continuing contributions to human progress, its astonishing popularity even in these times, bear witness that it is worthy of your confidence and worthy, too, of adequate support from the state. To you it looks for leadership in the vital task of interpreting its ideals and purposes to the people. This is the great and sacred trust confided by Alma Mater to your care."

The President spoke briefly on athletics, expressing his belief in them, that they have contributed to the effectiveness of American higher education and to the greatness of American universities as builders of men. On the other side of the picture he spoke of those alumni and even university officials who are obsessed by the desire for victory or gate receipts that they "participate in", or at least shut their eyes to, acts which reflect discredit upon themselves and their institutions in the minds of all thinking sportsmen".

"Both publicly and privately I'm against that sort of thing. I want the team I root for to be composed of students who are playing at atheletics, not of athletic tramps who are playing at being students. That is why I have been working hard ever since I came into this presidency, and will, I think, succeed before I'm through, to get a strong commissioner for the Pacific Coast Conference; a burly policeman, if you will, to enforce decent standards of competitive recruiting and to point the way to higher ideals of intercollegiate rivalry.

"A university can either attract its teams or it can hire its teams; there are no other alternatives. That should mean but one choice for alumni of the University of California. Let's believe in our university so much and work for it so hard, that the very contagion of our belief and effort attracts athletic students to its hall. Then subsidies won't be needed, the game we enjoy won't be killed by its false friends, and our university will win, as it always does a fair share of the contests in which it engages, including the contest for athletic supremacy, for scientific discovery, for superb service"

GEO. CARTER BUYS BUS LINES OF GOVE CELIO

Gove C. Celio, has sold his Miners Bus Lines to George R. Carter, local business man and former sheriff. There are seven large busses, part of them travel between Nevada City and the Lava Cap mines, while the others operate between Grass Valley and the mines. Mr. Celio has operated the service for five years. He is now working his mining property in the Remington Hill district which gives every promise of making a good producer.

Welsh, ex-war veteran who has been in Letermans Hospital for has returned to his home in Willow Valley. He is the son in law of Mr. and Mrs. Will Davis. He is much improved in health.

Capt. George A. Nihell returned last Wednesday from Napa where he had been invited by his sister in law to visit and celebrate his birthday. He is 80 years of age and enjoyed a delicious dinner and happy visit with relatives.

SUDDEN DEATH OF N.I.D. DITCH TENDER

Joseph Yore, aged 63 years, ditch tender for the N. I. D. and well known throughout Sierra and Nevada counties, was found dead on the floor of his home on Texas Creek camp last night by Jessie Huckabe. cook for the N. I. D.

Sunday morning Yore had had company and appeared in the best of health and spirits according to Sheriff Carl J. Tobiassen who made an investigation. The body was taken in custody by the coroner and it is thought an investigation will be held to determine cause of death. It is now believed death was due to a heart attack.

ENGLEBRIGHT PRAISES SCOUT ORGANIZATION

The annual crime bill in the United States staggers the imagination, and statistics show that the large percentage of it is attributable to youths and young men in their early twenties. It follows then that one of the most logical methods to reduce this bill is youth training through the creation of better home environment, better environment for youth when away from home, and through the teaching of elementary principles that are important in character building. Not much can be accomplished in home environment except through education of and cooperation with parents, but the environments outside of the home life are particularly important since the youth of today spends considerably more time away from home. Much can be accomplished by interesting boys and girls in healthful recreational and occupational pursuits. This will supplement the influence of the good home and substitute, in part at least, for the home where environment is unsatisfactory. Guidance is needed most for boys, since girls are protected more by convention.

Probably the best known and more highly organized group for supplying this training is the Boy Scouts of America. Regular meetings under the guidance of capable leaders teach the boys organization, team work, and good citizenship — the elements of good character building. Hikes and other outdoor pursuits not only substitute enjoyable exercise for street loitering and build healthful bodies but what is very important, the contacts with nature and learning to take care of themselves in the woods, develops that resourcefulness and pioneer spirit that has made America strong.

Congressman Harry E. Englebright says he is a warm supporter of the Scouts. The Scouts can facetiously say that Mr. Englebright might be a big man in congress, but he is only a tenderfood in scouting. He was made a tenderfoot scout in full form at a ceremonial last year. "Yes," the congressman says, "I am a tenderfoot and proud of it, and I hope in the near future to qualify for higher degrees."

MRS. MABEL NETTLE PASSES AWAY IN G. V.

Mrs. Mabel Sandow Nettell of Grass Valley passed away at her home yesterday afternoon after a several months illness. She was 47 years of age and was a native of Nevada City. As a young woman she was employed in Scaddens Bakery and the former Citizens Bank, later the Nevada County Bank in Nevada City. Mrs. Nettell was a member of the Ladies Aid Society of the Methodist church in Grass Valley, Neva Rebekah lodge of Nevada City, Past Noble Grand and Past District President of the Rebekahs, and a member of the American Legion Auxiliary.

The news of her passing casts a shadow of sorrow over the two cities where she was so universally loved and esteemed.

Mrs. Nettell was the wife of John Nettell, county recorder-elect. Other relatives are a son, Edwin Sandow, and the following sisters and brothers: Mrs Maria Ninnis, Mrs. Jane Baker, Miss Minnie Sandow, George Sandow, Nick Sandow of Nevada City; Tom Sandow, San Francisco; Richard Sandow, Grass Valley and Fred Sandow, Sacramento.

Funeral services will be held Wednesday afternoon at two o'clock in Grass Valley with Rev. Mills officiating. Holmes-Hooper Funeral Home have charge of arrangements.

CIO Affiliate Balks At Run-Off Vote on Bargaining Agency

Lava Cap miners representing almost a hundred employes of the mine met yesterday and voted to ask Otto Schiffner, general manager of the mine to hold a run-off vote to determine the bargaining agency at the mine. In a vote two weeks ago the CIO affiliate polled 117 votes, the Mine Workers Protective League 97 and independents 23. It was understood at that time, if the poll resulted in giving no majority to any group, the two highest would go to the polls in a run-off election.

This morning Mr. Schiffner held a conference with Olney Donnelly, president of the Mine Workers Protective League, and Al Garesio, president of the CIO affiliate. After the meeting was over, confidence was expressed that an understanding would be reached.

Last night the CIO affiliate officers and directors met and declared that they would accept no election run-off unless the ballots read: "For CIO;" Against CIO". It is understood that the Mine Workers Protective League and Mr. Schiffner have refused to accede to this ballot wording and demand that the ballots shall show both the CIO affiliate and the Mine Workers Protective League.

The Lava Cap Mine Corporation is no longer under the jurisdiction of the Labor Board, since, beginning October 1 it has been shipping its concentrates to the Selby Smelters at Crockett instead, as formerly to a Tacoma smelter. However, Robert Harris, secretary of the local CIO affiliate, holds a threat over the Lava Cap, to the effect that in event of disagreement with his union, he will ask the CIO affiliate among the smelter workers of Selby's to declare Lava Cap concentrates "hot cargo". To this threat the management replied that in that event the mine would be closed for three or four months until a cyanide plant could be erected and the concentrates treated on the property.

LABOR BOARD FAILS TO APPEAL IDAHO-MD. CASE

Word was received Friday, October 21, from the legal advisors of Idaho-Maryland case that the time for the filing of petition for Writ of Review in the case of the National Labor Relations Board in the Idaho-Maryland, expired Wednesday, October 19. Since no petition was filed, the decision of the Circuit Court of Appeals holding that the Idaho-Mines Corporation is not subject to jurisdiction of the National Labor Relations Board has become final and is binding with all parties.

The credit for this decision, which deals a death blow to all CIO local labor mine organizing activities, goes to the legal staff of the Idaho-Maryland.

GEO. HATFIELD BACKS MERRIAM

SAN FRANCISCO, October 24—In a powerful address supporting Governor Merriam Lieutenant Governor George Hatfield, candidate for the Republican nomination in the primary, last night said he "saw eye to eye" with Governor Merriam on the major issue of the final campaign and in my opinion that issue transcends and completely overshadows all the issues on which Governor Merriam and I have differed.

"That issue," Hatfield said, "is whether, under Governor Merriam and Dr. Walter Scott Franklin shall hold fast to American principles, continue to respect the Bill of Rights and revere the Constitution of the United States — or whether, under Culbert Olson and Ellis Patterson, with their cohort and patron the alien Harry Bridges, lurking in the background, we shall turn to the state government into a half caste Socialistic-Communistic machine for the fomentation of class war, for the breakdown of the traditional American system, and the consolidation in California of subversive "isms" imported from the shadow of the hammer and sickle banner of subversive Russia."

Hatfield said party lines were obliterated, adding "I can no more imagine an old time Cleveland Democrat voting for Culbert Olson or Ellis Patterson than I can imagine the late Woodrow Wilson resigning the office of the President of the United States in favor of Upton Sinclair."

INVESTIGATES ROBBERY

Sheriff Carl J. Tobiassen is investigating robbery of the Taylorville grocery store south of Grass Valley. The loot includes three vending machines and liquor. Blood was spattered freely on the front door glass and it is believed one of the thieves cut his hand on the door as he broke in.

BAR ASSN. BACKS TUTTLE FOR SEAT, APPEALS COURT

The Nevada County Bar Association unanimously endorsed the candidacy of Judge Raglan Tuttle for appointment to the bench of the Third District Court of Appeals to succeed the late Justice John A. Plummer who passed away a short time ago. The endorsement was made at a meting held by the Nevada County Bar Association Friday at which the following resolution was adopted:

BE IT RESOLVED, by the Nevada County Bar Association:

That RAGLAN TUTTLE, Judge of the Superior Court of Nevada County, is eminently fitted by learning and training to fill the vacancy on the bench of the District Court of Appeals, Third Appellate District, caused by the death of Justice Plummer and we hereby endorse the candidacy of Judge Tuttle for this exalted position, and hereby pledge ourselves to use every honorable means to secure his appointment to fill the vacancy as caused by the death of Justice Plummer.

In 1925 Judge Tuttle was appointed Superior Judge of Nevada County by Governor Friend W .Richardson to succeed Judge George L. Jones who had resigned. Judge Tuttle was elected to the position at the August primaries in 1926 without opposition. He was re-elected in 1932 and at the primary election in August 1938 he was again re-elected without opposition. He has served with distinction not only as judge of Nevada County but also on the appellate benches in Sacramento and San Francisco under assignment by the state judicial council.

As a justice pro-tem on the appellate bench he has written more than 150 opinions in important cases appealed to the upper court.

BROWN BEAR IS TREED AND SHOT

Lawrence Mazzanti and dogs found the big brown bear seen near Central Shaft of the Lava Cap mine by miners as they came off work Friday evening, after about a 15 minute hunt Sunday afternoon. Mothers living in cottages about the mine were warned to keep their children in doors until the big creature had been killed or driven from the district. The bear weighed over 300 pounds and was killed by Mazzanti with a .22 rifle. He killed a big brown bear in the Greenhorn district to the east of the Lava Cap mines about a year ago. Bear season opened about ten days ago and several hunters have gone east of Nevada City looking for them.

Mrs. Emma Foley had as week end guests her daughter and son in law, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Hoagland of Kimberley, Nevada.

Protect Your Homes

In California, more than most states, the slogan "Own your own home," has become a reality.

We have 632,202 home-owned-homes in California. And we also have 150,360 farm-owned-farms. We are a home-loving people.

But we have vital need. at the forthcoming election, on November 8, to protect our homes with our ballots. Many arguments can be advanced against Proposition No. 20, the "Single Tax"-Sales Tax Repeal Act. but the most effective argument, in our opinion, is that it would be a death blow to home ownership.

The shopworn and oft repudiated theory of the Single Taxers is that private ownership of land—the ownership of a farm, a home, or a business property — is "against natural justice." Proposition No. 20 is predicated on that theory. BY MAKING TAXES HIGHER THAN THE TAXPAYER CAN PAY, it seeks to abolish home ownership; to confiscate the homes and farms which our citizens have bought with their hard-earned life savings.

We have defeated the "Single Tax" six or seven times in California, each time by decisive majorities. This year we should make the verdict so overwhelming that those who would rob us of our homes will know, once and for all, that their cause is hopeless. Every home-owner, every farmer—every person who has the normal desire to own his own home—should vote "No" on No. 20.

Thirty Pieces Of Paper

By JOHN P. CRONIN

A very wise man by the name of Barnum once said: "a sucker is born every minute." And judging by the thousands of confirmed devotees of the $30 Every Thursday plan, he was right. Were this not a fact, the racuous voiced sideshow barker, fakirs and patent medicine quacks would all be on WPA rolls, and the bombastic art of ballyhoo would vanish. Instead these money-leeching experts thrive just as copiously today as they did in days gone by.

And the reason is simple. Fundamentally man is a sucker. The herd instinct to be led dominates in him. Ungrammatically speaking, he likes to be kidded into believing "what ain't." Anything to camouflage the truth: to make it sweet-sounding and enhancing. Whisper "Utopia" and the march is on for the promised land. Man unconsciously seeks leadership. Thus we have our Hitlers, our Mussolinis and our Stalins. But the tragic part of it all is that man will follow with a blind ,frantic faith paths that lead to inevitable economic disaster.

Realizing that man is gullible and the unfortunate prey of every something for nothing dreamer that mounts a soap box, wily and glib-tongued politicians seek to exploit him. They concoct schemes and foist them upon unsuspecting and credulous public, regardless of the fact that they would ultimately land everybody in the poorhouse. Without a vestige of conscience they devise devious panaceas which, like Pandora's box, once opened, spreads distress among their fellow men.

Judas sold his Master for thirty pieces of silver. Have we here a simile? Are our old folks to be betrayed and relegated to the realm of shattered hopes and despair by thirty pieces of paper?

THIS AND THAT

By ROY GRIFFITHS DEETER

SHOWS MUST BE getting into our blood. Sunday evening we trekked down to Sacramento to see the dog show. The parade of champions was certainly an eye full, and there were some magnificent specimens of the canine present. Blood hounds, whippets, greyhounds, foxhounds, and lychers, conspicious by their absence, though we are not at all surprised about the last named for your writer has never seen a real lycher in this country anyhow. The dacshunds, and cairns seemed to be the most popular, although we fell very hard for a magnificent black poodle a beautiful (and very rare) Afghanastan hound and a really truly St. Bernard—and gosh, the Dobermans and Great Danes were truly something to gaze upon. We did not however see a Collie to touch the coming champion upon our own hearth, and that pleased us a lot. We did not particularly care for the kennel set up and the ring was poorly arranged. We got right down wrathy to boot at the methods of some of the professional handlers, perfectly orthodox you understand but we just didn't like it. All in all we feel the whole show was worth the visit from the dog lovers point of view—but a simply terrible strain on the dogs, especially the higher strung and more sensitive breeds. We are keeping our fingers crossed in the hope that next year we shall attend again, but this time as an exhibitor!

After the show, we sort of roamed around Sacramento, and found a good thing, we pass it on, in the hope that if you are down there some time and would enjoy something different you will try it. The place is called Ureshino Tei, which means The Happy House, and it is in Japanese Alley between third and fourth streets. It all appears VERY Japanese, which we realize is rather unpopular these days, and adds a little to the confusion, for it is run by two Hawian sisters Hana and Nami who REALLY are Hawaiian. Hana besides being a charming hostess has one of the sweetest voices it has been our good fortune to hear, dulcet is the only adjective we can think of that comes near to expressing it. Nami dances the Hula as it SHOULD be done, and there is no getting away from the fact it is about the most graceful dance ever. Then there is a Hawaiian lad called Richard who does simply amazing things to a steel guitar, and is also possessed of one of those sweet lilting voices that all the islanders seems to have. The atmosphere is thoroughly Hawaiian and yet one sits on the floor in ones stocking feet and drinks saki. I ask you? Doesn't it sound different and intriguing? We were awfully taken with it.

WE DARE NOT mention the weather. Everytime we start bragging about this gorgeous Indian summer that seems to be drenching us with warmth and amazing coloring, it rains, so we will merely say not bad, is it?

And with this—alohoa and cheerio everybody.

JUST WONDER-IN'

I wonder about cats and dogs—
Why should they scratch and bite?
The world is large enough for all,
But still they hiss and fight.
Just as I typed those pensive lines,
My neighbor's lovely child
Made faces at her playmate, Sue,
And then they both went wild.

I wonder if it is a fact that the human mind is composed of many minds, chief among which are the primordial mind, of obscure and questionable origin, the savage and child minds, and last, but often least, the so-called civilized mind, which being a recent acquisition, is not yet in perfect running order.

Would it be possible for one of these minds, under the influence of certain stimuli, to gain ascendency over all the others, and compel its owner to act like an anti-diluvian something or other, a savage, a child, or in exceptional cases like a highly intelligent human being?

The theory or atavism might reasonably explain why two small, cherubic lassies playing amiably in the autumn sunlight. suddenly go berserk and indulge in an orgie of curl pulling. scratching and biting, caluculated to turn the family cat green with envy.

We are sometimes pained by the unbecoming behavior of recalcitrant children, but seldom amazed, for we, their parents and teachers. aunts, uncles and cousins, are at times governed by irrational impulses, which incite us to acts and utterances of which we are afterward heartily ashamed. Atavistic tendencies? Perhaps; in any case, a study of atavism might lead us to a better understanding of ourselves, our wierd inheritances and our pre-Adamic ancestry.

I wonder if you have heard Mr. Funk, the dictionary man, asking for new words to conquer; he's looking for words which may be used in place of three or four words which will adequately define persons and things to which they are applied. Now he's looking for a word to describe the person who is always remembering "the good old days," living in the past and refusing to be comforted. I nominate the coined word, longagoist—accent on ag, in order to line it up with mysogonist, monogonist, etc. Then we could say of our reminiscing friend, "he's a longagogist who spends his time longagoing—accent on ag.. I hope Mr. Funk will accept my humble offering.

I wonder why Corrigan attracted so much attention; after all, going backward isn't so unusual. Many people think the whole world has been rolling backward ever since the World War and certainly several totalitarian nations have reverted to the state of mind which marked the dark ages. Here in America the republicans accuse F. D. R. of leading Uncle Sam down a blind alley and the Democrats say the Republicans are still dwelling in the horse and buggy age. Mr. Green charges Mr. Lewis with driving unionism down the trail of communism and Mr. Lewis is sure that Mr. Green is leading his followers into the house of bondage. In California deluded souls are harking back to the days of Henry George; but why continue? It seems to me that what we really need is something or someone, who will go heartily and convincingly forward.

ADELINE MERRIAM CONNER.

The assembly was entertained on Friday by a lecture from Mr. Brownlee, who is an expert on crime. He gave a very interesting talk about the way criminals raise, change and raise and forge checks. He did a number of tricks which pleased the audience very much. He demonstrated how pick-pockets work, and told several stories of his travels through all parts of our country. He is offering a prize to the student who writes the best theme on "How to Prevent Crime."

IT'S YOUR OWN RESPONSIBILITY

Your DEFENSE is in your own hands — in your intelligent use of the ballot.

The discredited, six-times-defeated "Single Tax" will appear as Proposition No. 20 on your November ballot.

This ruinous proposal would Confiscate Homes and Farms by piling Extortionate Taxes on Land—Higher than Taxpayers could pay.

It would wreck trades and industries, skyrocket rents, drain the State Treasury of the funds necessary to pay old age pensions, to maintain the public schools and other essential functions of government.

It would bring chaos, distress and disaster to California. And Remember: You Can't Vote Sales Tax Out, Without Voting "Single Tax" in. The bait of "sales tax repeal" is a deliberate attempt to snare the unwary voter.

VOTE "NO!" ON No. 20!

ACTIVITIES OF BENEVOLENT SOC. ARE SUSPENDED

The Nevada City Benevolent Society at a recent meeting decided to retire from their activities for the present, believing that an over-lapping of work was wasteful and that the officers of state and county could efficiently serve the cause of charity through their salaried channels.

It is not the intention of the present officials of the society to abandon their organization at this time, but rather to conserve their efforts so that should an emergency arise in the field of their endeavor, they would be ready to do their bit as in the past. Those in charge have worked continuously in official capacity for 36 years and have the interest of the cause at heart, respecting the tradition of the benevolent body and of the Donation Day in which they have been ably assisted by the schools, churches, fraternal organizations and the general public.

The ladies of this community took over the work of the original benevolent society formed in 1876, at the suggestion of Mrs. J. M. Walling to the Native Daughters who invited all womens societies to cooperate. Quietly and privately the ladies distributed charity and have been rewarded by the respect and aid of all citizens.

Bequests from the wills of Antone Folene, Harriet Hauber, Mrs. E. M. Houston and D. J. McFall enriched the treasury and encouraged the workers. For the past three or four years there has been no public appeal for finances.

LOOKED FOR NUGGETS, FOUND TOUGH GOING

Two "tenderfeet" lately of San Francisco, John Cronin, on the Nevada City Nugget staff and Kirth Mullennex, new employee at the Murchie mine, met last Sunday near the Nugget office and after a few minutes visit decided to go out to look for nuggets in the old Manzanita "diggings" to the northeast and visible from the town. Up, up they climbed over and beyond Sugar Loaf until they were on the brink of the steep bluff, overlooking the hydraulic area. Half sliding down some distance they came upon the shaft of Luce and Graham. Water was being pumped from the shaft but no one in sight.

Surprised there were no trails the two continued on down the wash until they were in a deep cut surrounded by the dense manzanita and for a time they were lost. Climbing and scrambling about they managed to ge through and under the dense brush and climbed on up the slope to come out some distance beyond where they entered almost exhausted. John's shoes were badly worn and Kirth had to take off his boots to take out many rocks. In explaining it John said "why we didn't even find a small nugget!" not realizing this ground so near the city had been gone over thoroughly when it was first hydrauliked and later as diffirent ones walked over the area.

LOOKOUT ON BANNER

It has been necessary to re-man the Banner Lookout station on account of weather conditions and the amount of debris burning being done according to DeWitt Nelson forest supervisor at Nevada City. Nelson asks that those doing debris burning be very careful, since there is chance of a bad fire in spite of the recent rains.

Not bowed, in melancholy thought
At hushed footsteps of they who fought
Valiantly, to make the pathless West a home,
But inspired by glories of great careers—
Borrowing new courage from the pioneers.

1876 MILESTONES 1938

"GOLD!" Magic word that set the world ablaze. . . sent adventure-fired valiants to California's hushed canyons, roofed by blue-ceilings of age-old skies, sent doughty wives and families to gather in the close tie of humanity that is companionship . . . sent those hardy settlers of tireless perseverance to clearing trackless forests to the pattern of man's abode, to erecting homes set protectively shoulder to shoulder . . . sent dauntless engineers to carving the long tedious etching of threads that were roads . . . sent Spirit and Courage to unlock the wilderness and lay the cornerstone of Civilization in America's greatest frontier.

And so Transportation was born, mothered by Progress, sired by Hardship.

The pages of history echo with the strident tones of the jubilant brass band that blended with the triumphant whistle blasts of the first train to steam its proud way over 20 miles of newly laid rails, linking Grass Valley and Nevada City with Colfax—and the world outside.

It was a mighty day in Grass Valley—that balmy morning in May, 1876, when the Nevada County Narrow Gauge Railroad's golden spike was driven home! A mighty day for the men of imagination who tirelessly, doggedly, determinedly battled a reluctant Nature, overcoming her obstacles of hills and gorges and unfriendly, boiling streams. A great day for Grass Valley and Nevada City—and the future.

With the driving of that famous spike came a new Nevada County—new growth to mining, to business, to finer homes. For the railroad brought not only convenience but permanency and prestige as well.

Unknown hundreds of thousands of tons of freight—of mining machinery, building materials, foodstuffs, necessities of human life—have been transported by the Nevada County Narrow Gauge Railroad in its long career. Generations of travelers, too, have marvelled at the scenery of this beautiful road, declared one of the most picturesque in California.

While rail passenger service has been discontinued, this line continues to carry a huge volume of heavy freight for local consignment and for relay to the higher hills. In keeping pace with the demand for speed the Narrow Gauge successfully instituted a "motor van store-door delivery" service, whereby merchants of Grass Valley and Nevada City, placing their orders in San Francisco—or the radius of that locality, before four o'clock in the afternoon will receive their shipment, DELIVERED TO THEIR STORE DOOR, at approximately 9 o'clock on the following morning.

The Nevada County Narrow Gauge Railroad staffed by long time residents of western Nevada County, take greatest care of all freight entrusted to its keeping. Exacting handling, specific attention to address instruction and complete guarantee of protection through full insurance coverage are but a few of the features that makes the shipping business of a customer as important to the Narrow Gauge as his investments would be to his trusted banker.

AN ALL TIME RECORD.

It' a far cry from the days of eighty odd years ago when crude stamps jousted adamant quartz for its yellow heart and Nevada County awoke in wondering infancy. It's harder still — as sleek palatial carriers glide over velvety ribbons that are highways, to picture those pitiful, crawling wagons, laboriously creaking their way down the Gold Trail.

Time, with its relentless tilting of the hour glass, has constructed a new world—a world that whips its flying way to ever faster pace to the symphony of SPEED! EFFICINECY! SERCICE! Transportation has heeded that demand, satisfying the humanity its serves. It is almost unbelievable to think—for so casually has modern convenience and service been accepted—that the safe and luxurious travel trip of today, not measured in hundreds of miles but rather in hours, took days upon days for those patient pioneers.

The Nevada County Narrow Gauge Railroad has kept pace with advancement. Its railroad carriages, lordly in the splendor of the 19th century's turn—were gracefully moved to permanent sidings to make room for the faster, more demanded highway passenger bus. The Narrow Gauge, with ever watchful eye to the comfort and desires of its patrons, originated highway travel schedules to Colfax and Auburn, coinciding with the far reaching Southern Pacific Railroad lines and the Greyhound Stage lines and affording connection and relationship with major rail and bus lines throughout the nation.

Eager to accomodate, willing to go to farthest means to serve the expressed desire of travelers, affording the most for the least in transportation cost, considering that day lost when some little act of service, not scheduled is rendered, the Nevada County Narrow Gauge Railroad Company maintains its policy established over sixty years ago—TO MAKE FRIENDS—AND KEEP THEM!

YELLOWJACKETS GIVE PLACER STUBBORN GAME

By JEAN MARTZ

Last Friday the Nevada City Yellow Jackets went to Auburn to play against Placer Union high's football team. The starting line up for Nevada City was—Center, Bill Joyal; guards, Stratch and Williams; tackle King and Reeder; ends, Martin and Ellsworth Pingree; quarter-back, Elton Tobiassen. Half-backs, Leo Mitchell and Elgin Pingree. Full-backs, Hershal Lotz.

Nevada City kicked off and then recovered the ball when a Placer man fumbled it on the 20 yard line. Placer, however, intercepted the next pass and began a march which was not stopped until they reached about the 20 yard line of Nevada City.

In the second quarter Doolittle and Kopp went into the game, and began to gain yardage with a beautiful run, Doolittle carrying the ball and Kopp running interference. After Placer had regained the ball, Doolittle intercepted a pass and ran to the five yard line, from which Elgin Pingree went over the goal line for the first score of the game. Doolittle then carried the ball over for an additional point.

Placer soon made a touchdown but failed to convert, which meant Nevada City was leading by one point. The score did not remain so because in the fourth quarter, Placer made a touchdown and converted. The Nevada City boys were fighting hard but a Placer man made a long run to make another six points for Placer. The Yellow Jackets then started a passing attack, which resulted in a touch down made by Kopp. After the kick-off, the Nevada City players started gaining ground by passing again, but they were stopped by the end of the game. The final score was Placer 19, Nevada City 13. This was one of the best games of the season for Nevada City and the team played a stubborn defensive and brilliant offensive game.

A number of Nevada City students went to the game in the San Juan bus. Bob Reeder was instrumental in getting this transportation.

Report cards came out last Thursday at the high school, and the members of the "ten point honor roll" and "C. S. F." will be announced later in the week. To be on the ten-point honor roll the student must win ten points with an A counting 3; a B counting 2, and a C counting 1. To make the C. S. F. is harder because an A counts 3 and a B counts 1. The combination of these two is the honor society and the students are anxious to belong because of a party to be held soon.

The many friends of Harry Stephens will be pleased to learn that he was able to leave a Sacramento hospital and return to his home on Boulder street last Friday. Harry suffered a broken leg in a car-truck accident on the Tahoe Ukiah highway a year ago last August.

Mr. and Mrs. Lester Gregory and son, Dick, who have spent the summer at the new Tahoe National Forest camp at Sierraville, returned home Saturday. The forest service has constructed a number of dwellings, store room, etc., and when the project is completed it will be quite a large camp. Dick, who has been attending high school at Sierraville, started to high school here this morning.

Visitors at the Carl Johnson home Sunday were Mr. and Mrs. Fred Develey, Jr., and infant daughter of Auburn, and Mr. and Mrs. Carl Becker of Marysville.

the sake of its aid to his candidacy for the state senate. This year he won his gubernatorial nomination by preprimary advocacy of the ?30-Every-Thursday pension scheme; since the primary, when the public began to wake up to the economic menace of the Ham and Eggs chimera, he has demonstrated his complete lack of sincerity and conviction by consistently dodging any reference to the issue, either in his state platform or in his public utterances. Where Governor Merriam and the national administration have joined in forthright denunciation of the plan as ruinously unworkable, Olson has shuffled and equivocated, hoping to retain both his preprimary support and that of the New Deal. He should be, and is likely to be, punished by the loss of both.

Olson's record as the sole representative in the state senate of Los Angeles county, comprising some 40 per cent of the wealth, population and voting power of the state, has been one of consistent failure. He is the leader of a minority group of radicals and left-wingers, opposed to most constructive efforts, out of step with the administration, ineffective as a legislator. His outstanding contribution to date has been an effort to abolish his own office through elimination of the senate in favor of a unicameral legislature. The unpopularity of this plan in the rural districts, which would thereby be deprived of adequate representation, has caused a temporary silence on his part on the subject during his campaign for the governorship.

Olson's election is earnestly desired for their own purposes, by the Communists, by the CIO, by Tom Mooney and by those of the ?30-Thursday visionaries who still believe in what he said to get himself nominated. One of his largest primary campaign fund contributions—$7200 cash on the line—was made by Pete McDonough a chief figure in the San Francisco police graft investigation, who had been denied a bail bond broker's license by a state commissioner under the Merriam administration. The donation was not listed in Olson's report of campaign expenditures. When the facts came to light, he and his campaign managers denied having received such a contribution. Subsequently Olson personally returned the money to McDonough.

The running-mates of Merriam and Olson, Dr. Walter S. Franklin and Ellis Patterson, respectively Republican and "Democratic' nominees for Lieutenant Governor, are in all ways worthy of their chiefs. Dr. Franklin is one of the leaders of his profession in the country, a member of the University of California medical faculty, a director of several businesses and a man of extensive experience in public work. He has served on the California Safety Council Advisory Board, in relief work, in agricultural associations, in the Federal Housing Administration and in many charitable fields. In his personal one he has treated more than 100,000 patients without charge. His varied interests, public and private, are representative of those of the state at large: his unpaid service of the public in many capacities has demonstrated both the public spirit and the capacity for responsible office. He has never before been a candidate for a salaried post.

Patterson has the same radical and pension backing as Olson and, like Olson is a political nondescript. He called himself a Republican in 1932, was elected to the state assembly as an Epic Democrat in 1934, was defeated by the Epic Democrats for nomination to succeed himself in 1936, but won by less than 200 votes on a write-in. This year he appeared as candidate for the Republican, Democratic and Progressive nominations for Lieutenant Governor. He won the last two, but has since been repudiated by Raymond Haight, retiring Progressive nominee for governor, who has indorsed Dr. Franklin and asked his supporters to vote for him. Patterson's service as an assemblyman has been inconspicious, though he won some notoriety last year through absenting himself from a close legislative contest to attend—in a state-owned car—a Tom Mooney meeting and was returned to his desk by the sergeant at arms. In no way does he measure up to the presently and potentially high requirements of the Lieutenant-Governorship.

Such are the records and the qualifications of the four men whom this campaign presents to the California electorate for the state's two highest offices. If experience, accomplishment, ability, sincerity and character count as they should count, the outcome of these contests is already decided.

MRS. POSTEN STRUCK BY CAR

Chief of Police Garfield Robson was called to investigate an accident at the intersection of York and Pine streets last evening when Mrs. Verne Posten was struck by an auto driven by Allen Joy. Mrs. Posten evidently became confused as she attempted to cross the street on her way to church. She started from the north side of York to the Court House corner and two machines were coming from each direction. Joy was coming up York and Mrs. Posten apparently became confused and walked in front of his car and was thrown to the pavement, suffering bruises to her head and knee. The officer stated he had not found Joy to blame in the accident. Latest reports from Mrs. Posten this forenoon are that she is resting easily.

HI COACH WILL TALK AT ROTARY

Frank P. Martin, physical education instructor at the Nevada City high school, will be the guest speaker at the Nevada City Rotary club Thursday. Martin is a graduate of University of Southern California, took post graduate work at University of California at Berkeley, and taught swimming at Sunnyvale before accepting the position at Nevada City. He has a set of slow motion pictures in tumbling and calisthenics that has proven very interesting in other showings he has made.

Mrs. Walter Weege celebrated her birthday which occurs October 25 last Saturday evening when her husband and others friends were able to be present. Present for the delicious dinner and happy social time were Mr. and Mrs. Roy Wagnor and children, Mrs. Carl Johnson.

Jim Baldwin, former Nevada City miner and engineer, who is interested in developing and mining the Three Queens mine at Forest Hill, spent the past week end at the Ed Conley home on Town Talk. The Three Queens mine has a rich past production record. Baldwin states that ore mined so far is proving satisfactory.

Bruce Kirkpatrick and Frances Ansell of Sebastopol, spent the past week end visiting Kirkpatrick's aunt and uncle, Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Bosworth of Gold Flat. The two young men had been on an auto tour of Southern Oregon and Northwestern California. Among interesting sights visited was Crater Lake.
